Studio Time

The pottery is available for individual bookings so you can work on your own project at your own speed.

We will give you up to three balls of clay to make something. You will be given table space and the necessary tools to hand-build, or if you have booked the wheel you can throw pots throughout the session.

Although you will be left to pursue your own project we will be in the studio throughout, getting on with our own things (we may even be delivering a lesson to someone else!) so if you need help or can't find something, we are always going to be available.

Assuming you have made something that will be safe in the kiln, we will fire your creation (it will either be white or red depending on which clay you chose) and it will be available to collect in two or three weeks time, or you can book another slot to glaze it and we will fire it again ready for you to collect later.

This option to do independent clay-work is not suitable for people who have never used clay in a pottery— book a few lessons first in order to learn the basics and then take advantage of this studio-time opportunity.

Although learning to become a potter is a life-time's job, it doesn't take much to learn the basic rules that will give your pottery a chance of surviving the high temperatures of the kiln, and once you feel confident to go-it-alone, booking independent time in the studio is a lovely way to develop your skills.

Studio Time, per person:

£14 per 90 minute session
(£12 concessions)

The price includes up to three balls of clay, or our standard glazes, to use on items made during other sessions at the Milndavie Pottery. The price also includes firing in the kiln.

Special Offer: Book twelve studio time sessions and pay for ten! If you want to take advantage of this offer, so long as you commit to all twelve visits, you can pay in installments, per session, if you prefer—and then when you get to the last two sessions they will be free of charge!

Book: by phone or email.

More Please!

If you want more than the occasional 90minute booking, you might want to become one of our "Associates" (£4 per hour for a weekly 6 hour booking)- price includes materials, have a look on our website
